

WORLD WAR I: THE EXPERIENCE

"Shell Shock," painting by University of Regina student Mark Macabeo, 2019"

"Red Cross Volunteer Nurse Recruitment Poster from World War I, rendered in cross stitch, by University of Regina student Danyka Maurer, 2019."

Please join the University of Regina's History 201 class as we celebrate the end of term with a public exhibit called, "World War I: The Experience." On display will be several multimedia projects, created by History 201 students, that offer a critical re-telling of World War I. Through paintings, needlework, music, creative nonfiction, material artifacts, research papers, podcasts, websites, and more, this exhibit encourages visitors to re-think Canada's history of total war. It also invites them to explore assignment ideas that extend beyond the essay.

Date: Thursday, April 11, 2019

Time: 12 PM to 1 PM

Location: College West, 2nd floor, room 215
(formerly the University Club)